A GROUNDSWELLFOR STEPHENS

Which is Only Held Down by His Friends.

The democratic state convention met promptly at twelve o'clock in the capitol on The convention was composed of being without delegates on the floor. The proceedings were characterized by earnestness but by little asperity or bitter feeling. At the adjournment for the evening it was universally remarked that no convention had ever finished its first day's proceedings with so little trouble as the one now in session. The details of the proceedings, with the gossip throughout, may be found below:

ASSEMBLING OF THE CONVENTION. The delegates begun to fill the hall before 10 o'clock, and by 11 o'clock, an hour before the time set for the opening of the convention, almost every chair was occupied. The delegates were arranged by congressional districts in a very good plan, as it threw delegates who had the same instructions generally together, and enabled them to consult with out the noise and bustle evident to conventions in which there were hotly contested races. The most remarkable thing that appeared from a look over the convention was the unusual number of famil iar faces. Probably never before, was there a con vention which was composed so entirely of trained politicians, and of men who have been foreme in the affairs of county an state.

It really looked as if the convention was mad up of ex-members of the legislature and ex-congressmen and old veteras who had served through most of the hotly contested conventions of the past ten years, and unfamiliar faces was the exception

medimen of a Georgian, in whose accomplished life there rests the last hope of a history of the colonial days of the state, apparently as earnest now for the election Barnes as he ever was in the study of the obscure data which commemorated the deeds of our ancestors. Mayor Wheaton, of Savannah, also attracted much attention, and was one of the most distin ruished looking of the delegates-notable no less for his sterling worth than for the great work i did during the yellow fever epidemic in his native city. A.D. Henry R Harris, prudent, conservative and patriotic, with Hon. W. T. Wofford, practical and earnest, invoking harmony, but earnest for Young and Stephens Hon. Morgan Rawls, of Effingham, one of the best democrats in southern Georgia and as clever a con gressmen in the co vention.

Richmond county furnished the largest delega tion in the convention, and one of the best, while the galleries held no less than 100 reserve Augus tans, who were looking out for Barnes. The dele Gary and the Hon Pat Walsh, Hon Robert H May in the law of political and social art, while a rattling rank and ale was made up of Armstrong, Ver dery, Carroll, Warren Mays, Hon, J. K. "Williamson, of Spalding, who bore the brunt of many a tilt in that famous convention Among the ex-senators was the Honorables Russell, Candler, W. H. Harrison, J. G. Cain, Mr Gilmore, W. J. W. A. Harris, L. J. Holden, W. S. Irwin, man who was wandering over the face of the earth and Preston. Among the ex-members were Graham, Mays, McKibben, Tutt, Barrows, Sheffield, Northen, Jemison, Fort, Hutchins, Simmons, Allred, Walsh, Livingstone, Hunt, Hon. Barney Blackwell, of Cobb, a delightful old veteran that has the happy faculty of never getting older in a calm and sensible speech, directed to the and that ought never to get any older; Hon. The notable leaders of the Colquitt wing in the last convention. present in the conven ion, were Nottingham, of Houston; Graham, the rare old veteran from Hall county, and Shumate of Whitfield, the scholarly and eloquent debator and inflexible patriot; Mr Black, of Floyd county the best worker that ever entered the hall where the convention was assembled, and a man true as he is capable; Hobbs of Dougherty, Northen, of Hancock, the latter two against Stephens, and Hopkins, of Thomas, and Walsh, of Richmond, as sturdy as ever, and Daniel just as courtly and effective, and John Black of Floyd. In the Chathan delegation, Joe Warren, the Lester leader of two years ago, was missed, but Reed, Ryals and others were on hand. The bright Coumbus men who upheld the anti-Colquitt banner two years ago were missing, but a staunch delegation was on hand with Martin Craw ord in their hearts, moving earnestly for Stephens Among the fournalists who served as delegates were Estill, Walsh, Grubb, Ben Russell, Freeman, Pat Woods, Speer, Smith and Harrison, while DeWolf, of the Columbus Times, and Dwinnell. of the Rome Courier, Ham, of the Gainesville Eagle, and Bridges Smith, of the Macon Telegraph, H. M. McIntosh, Tyler Peeples, W. H. Lastinger, moved through the aisles, discussing the situation. Judge Alexander, of Thomas, held a commanding position in the deliberations. Mayor Rucker, of Athens, was the handsomest man on the floor, with the possible exception of Gamble, of Washington There were few fractional votes, the "one-half of one vote" from Wilkinson being the only one that excited much comment. Governor Bullock was in the rear of the convention during the morning. one of the candidates for governor or congres representative men, only one county, Rabun, man-at-large were on the floor or in the hall during the day. Ex Senator W. H. Harrison, of Quitman was one of the foremost of the Bacon leaders. THE GENERAL PROCEEDINGS.

The first breeze in the convention, and a very small me it was, before the speech of Hon, L.N. Trammell, calling the convention to order, was a suggestion by a delegate that the Hon. A. O Bacon be called to the chair. After calling for a vote on the motion there was no response, and Colonel Trammell there called the convention to order. Colonel Trammell's speech was a model of brevity, and upon its close Colonel Livingstone was carried to the chair Immediately after roll call the irrepressible Jemion arose and moved that a committee be appointed for the purpose of selecting permanent officers for the convention. He seemed to have no especial idea why this should be done, except the belief that a slate had been formed, and he was desirous of smashing it. Major Simmons, of Gwinnett, to whose hand had been confided the nomination of Captain Henry Jackson, was on his feet in an nstant and without any argument proposed that the convention proceed to its work by the election of permanent officers. Colonel Simmons nomi nated Captain Jackson in a handsome speech, and Hon. Pope Barrow, of Clarke, with referen the hereditary integrity of the man, seconded the nomination, and the election was made by accla mation. Captain Jackson took the chair, amid a storm of applause, and made a most admirable and patriotic speech, that was frequently interrupte

As soon as the president had taken his seat it was apparent that there was going to be forced fighting Pike, made a plumb effort to settle the question of representation by question representation moving the new apportionment as the basis. A unning debate ensued that developed the fact that the Bacon delegates generally favored the old apportionment. In point of fact the new apportionment nean a net gain of 7 votes for Stephens. It soon became apparent that a compromise would be ffected and each county allowed its full vote unde he old or new.

riskly, and culminated in a motion of Zeke Graam to force an issue squarely on the preference o the convention on this subject. This proposition as met with words of applause showing that the onvention was ready and anxious to settle this nooted point one way or the other. Nothing but a prompt motion for adjournment for the dinner our, torced by the leaders of either presented del egates taking the bit in their mouths and ordering a roll-call on the rule without debate.

The morning session, with its minor debate, sent orward Pope Barrow, W J Northen, Sam Jemison and Hunt, as the Bacon leaders on the floor, and hinted that Hoke Smith, Pat Walsh and W E Simnons, would do much of the talking for Mr.

The fight in the afternoon was opened upon the two thirds rule, but was shortly shifted to hear from he committee on credentials, which report involved the fight over representations. The discus ion on this was spirited and showed that the party lines were not strongly drawn and the result was

AN AMUSING INCIDENT. An amusing incident of the evening session was the withdrawal of Sam Jemison from the Bacon neadquarters on the left of the hall. He appeared suddenly when the convention met in the afternoon upon the right hand amen corner, and stated that he had been so aggressive that his col-leagues had determined that he would throw the fat in the fire if he was left alone, and that he preferred to take his position in a location where would be responsible for nobody's opinion but his own, and where he would not have to devote mor time to convincing his colleagues that he was right, than in convincing the convention.

THE DEBATE ON THE TWO-THIRDS. A spicier scramble than that had over the aboliion of the two-thirds rule was never heard in the apitol. It was opened by the Hon. W. J. Northen? nerits of the question.

After this it was impossible to follow the current of the debate. It was literally a scramble, in which nett, who has more influence and looks lazier and the Stephens men were urging a vote and the Baon men delaying it. In this scramble Bill Tutt, of McDuffie, fell on his feet and made a ringing speech, that kept the house in roars and ap-"won the honors," and titly congratulated. Hoke vailed at last and the convention subsided in horough good humor.

THE VOTE ON THE RULE.

The vote on the rule was taken amid intense exitement. The first twenty counties gave the twothirds a heavy majority, it running at one time 59 to 36. The majority rule pulled up from this point and at 118 votes there was a tie. The vote of each county from first to last was received with applause and when the majority rule had its clear majority there was prolonged applause and shouting. There were but few counties that voted in opposition to s, and those in cases, perhaps, where there was doubt as to how far the instructions were

FOR "STEPHENS BY ACCLAMATION. When the rule was decided the opponents of Mr. Stephens apparently gave up the fight. Hon. Ben Russell, who was a strong anti-Stephens man, Hon. Bill Harris, who was instructed for the Hon. "Tete" Smith, and Sam Jemison, who rightly said that he was "the most recalcitrant man in the convention" oined in urging the nomination of the "old Comnoner" by acclamation. . Indeed the curious specacle was presented of Stephens men actually delaying the proposition to nominate him viva voce. It was understood, however, that there were several ounties that would not vote for this, and it was hought best to have a formal ballot. The scene when "King Bill." of Worth, came forward and proposed the "acclamation" move was simply inlescribable. Men rose and waved their hats, houted, hurrahed and filled the whole capitol with clamor.

after adjournment at the good feeling and harmony hat prevailed. There was hardly a speech made that did not invoke unity and harmony, and the oody of the delegates were determined to have it It was thought probable that the convention would finish its business to-day and adjourn.

The Proceedings in Detail. Hon. L. N. Trammell called the convention arge attendance and the patriotism which drew them together. He invoked unity of action, which of Hancock, immediately antagonized any proposi vas heartily applauded.

Mr. Pope Barrow said that recognizing all that had been said of Captain Jackson as true, such was his admiration for his character and integrity, that otwithstanding the well known partiality of Captain Jackson for the opposing candidate, he took pleasure in seconding the nomination. On being put to the house, the nomination was made unanineus, and escorted by Messrs. Simmons, Barrow, and Harris, of Worth Captain Jackson took his Gentlemen of the Democratic Convention of the State of Georgia: Before I assume the discharge of the duties of the high position to which you have called me by your votes. I desire to thank you for the great honor conferred. You, the representatives of the Sovereign people of this great commonwealth, hold within your grasp its destiny for the next two years. How much of wisdom should characterize your deliberations, how much of moderation should temper your counsels, and how much of justice should be evir eed by your actions! On a rapid survey of the political past, what a contrast is presented between the republican rule of the union and the democratic rule of the state. Beneath a cloudless sky in this dear old Georgia, the representatives of the people, who have placed her in the lead of states, in the great march of progress and civilization, have assembled for a calm and dispassionate consideration of what will most conduce to her future interest and prosperity. Is there a gentleman present who is not actuated in all that he does by patriotic devotion to his state? Is there a delegate her who would advance his interests at her sacrifice? Gentlemen of the convention, let us labor for the welfare and prosperity of Georgia regardless of personal interests. She has many noble sons aspiring to the honors within tho gift of her people, all of them dear to her, and surely a just conclusion can be reached in harmony. The exercise of wisdom, justice and moderation can alone result in general satisfaction. Let the crown be given to him of her many noble sons who has achieved most for her by his unselfish devotion, and as our noble state rises to her full proportions, and takes her place in the grand triumphal march of civilization, may her sister states in equal glory, accompany her, bound together by the constitution of our common country, and the memories of our forefathers. Then will the Georgian, wherever his wanderings may carry him, whether from snow-capped Alps, or burning desert, or luxuriant tropic, point with pride to the state of his birth and the institutions of his country. Gentlemen. I thank you for the honor of calling upon me to preside over your deliberations, and I now announce this convention as ready for business. [Great applause.]

Mr. Redding, of Pike, moved:

Mr. Northen, tion looking to the unseating of any member pres nt He was in favor of allowing all counties to retain the benefit of either apportionment. He then

Mr. Jemison rose with a point of order, but was turned down by the chai man, when Mr. Living stone proceeded to argue against both propositions favoring a strict adherence to the old apportion ment. The only apportionment in force is the one inder which the present legislature holds office. The new apportionment will not be in force until the new legislature shall have been convened. He therefore moved that both propositions be laid pon the table, upon which Mr. Jemison called for the yeas and have when Mr. I. E. Resolved. That this convention tender to Hon. B. H. Hill their most sincere and hearty symbolic, assuring him of their prayers that He "whols too wise to err, too good to be unkin!" may grant him speedy recovery and an early return to the senate which his genius adorns. He paid a glowing tribute to the genius and worth of the afflicted senator, as one whose record illustrated the best elements of Georgia manhood. The vote was taken by rising vote, every man coming to his feet amid the most oppressive silence. The chair announced that the first business in order was the question on the majori v or two-thirds rule. upon which Mr. Gilmore, of Washington, presented the following amendments: Whereas, the demo cratic party of Georgia, having assembled under and by the authority of the people to nominate a governor, congressman-at-large, treasurer, comptroller general and secretary of state, be it therefore resolved. that the convention hereby adopt the majority rule in nominating candidates, and that a candidate re ceiving a majority of the votes of this convention be declared the nominee. Mr. Northen, of Hancock, sent up a substitute for the whole: Resolved, That in all nominations made by this convention is shall require two-thirds of all votes cast to select a candidate. Upon this resolution Mr Northen spoke at considerable length. This convention represents the great people of Georgia, who have authorized its coming together not for the purpose of holding up the hands of any particular man, but of con serving the democratic party and the people of the state. Mr. Nottingham raised the point of order that the committee on credentials was ready to re port and was, therefore, entitled to the floor. Mr Harris, chairman, also announced his readmess to The report was received but Mr. Northen was allowed to retain the floor upon his speech. The two-thirds rule embodied the traditions of the democratic party, and should be adhered to. Why? If we were assured of the loyalty of all here then we might be willing to let the majority decide the question. But we must insist that the man who wants the high office of governor, must have not only a majority, not only two-thirds, but must be acceptable to the whole people. We want a man whose claims are universally recognized, who will not have to run around to the primaries for a bare majority.

THE COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS. Mr. Harris, of Worth, here interrupted with the eport of the committee on credentials, as follows: Mr. President: The select committee appointed on credentials, submit the toll wing report: We have considered the resolution of Mr. Redding, from the count of Pike, and recommend that it be not adopted. We have considered the resolution of Mr. Northen, of Itancock, and recommend that it be not adopted.

W. A. HARRIS, Chairman.

W. A. HARRIS, Chairman.
The following milrority report was also presented:
Mr. President: The following members of the committee on credentials, to whom were referred the various resolutions offered to this convention, defining the representation to which the various counties of this state shall be entitled on the floor of the convention, beg leave to submit the rollowing minority report:

We favor the basis of representation upon the present law passed by the general assembly of Georgia at the session of 1880 81, founded upon the census of the United States taken in 1880, and therefore sus of the United States taken in isso, and therefore recommend to the convention that the resolution offered by the Hon J F Redding, of the county of Pike, be adopted, and the counties of this state shall be entitled to the number of votes founded in said resolution. All of which is respectfully submitted.

M F RESS, J W PRESSON,

Mr. Redding, of Pike, moved:

Resolved, That the counties of Bibb, Burke, Chatham, Floyd, Fulton and Richmond be entitled to cast six votes each, and the counties of Bartow, Cobb, Carroll, Coweta, Decatur, DeKalb, Greene, Gwinnett, Hall, Hancock, Harris, Houston, Jackson, Meriwether, Monroe, Muscogee, Oglethorpe, Pike, Putnam, Sumter, Thomas, Troup, Walten, Washington and Wilkes four votes each, and the remaining one hundred and five counties two votes each.

He supported the resolution briefly, insisting that the counties were entitled to representation accord.

Which census should we take, the one of twelve years ago, or the one of 1880. We are here to represent Georgia as she is, and not it was not a question of deciding according to one nature of the call under which we are convened. All calls in times past have been under existing apportionments. This is, I hope, a family meeting is sound in principle that representation should be based upon the existing legislative appertionment. Mr. J. J. Hunt, of Spaiddenied that representation should on the previous legislative basis. But the new ap portionment is now the law-the legislature has finally parsed upon it, and it is a fixed fact. No one controverts that the basis of representation is formed in the legislative apportionment.

Mr. Gary-Give me a direct answer

The proposition to give a small population a greater vote than a large population because a different state of things existed twelve years ago is certainly was one of the counties which had a gain under the new apportionment. Acting under it they had elected delegates who would not feel satisfied if ex cluded from membership in the convention. thought all delegates duly elected should be al lowed to vote. Mr. Jemison, of Bibb, moved his headquarters down into the middle of the second district, from which point of vantage he caught the attention of the chair. He wanted to speak his sen timents. He was timid, and came over where he might have some support. The action of the committee in making the call should be considered in settling this question. What was the will of the committee? That representation should be according to law. What was the That for every member of the legislature to which a county is entitled, it shall also be allowed two votes in the convention. The act passed in 1880 changing a representation, does not go into effect until the last day of our legistative year, which is s ill several months off. Mr. Reese asked for the reading of paragraph 2, section 3, artille 3, of the gate constitution. Mr. Jemison announced that he was waiting for the explanatory remarks, which should accompany the request. Suppose the governor had occasion to convene the legislature, which body would he bring together. Mr. Allen Fort, of Sumter, said the report of the minority was based on principle. We are not here under control of the legislature. We represent the people, and the uestion is settled by the ascertained number of voters. A question baving been raised as to how the counties should be polled, whether under the old law or the new. In the vote on this question the chair decided that he would hold the old rule to be of force until the new one was adopted. Mr. Barrow said the convention had the right to make its own rules. We are not bound by the legislature, Mr. Jemison-In appointing your committees why gressional district? Mr. Barrow-1 suppose it was an oversight of the chair. It could have been done. Mr. Jemison-Where would you have cast the net for the tenth man? Mr. Barrew-Henry D. McDaniel would have done well enough. Let us seat all the elected delegates, and turn out no one. Disfranchise no one, but give the benefit of the doubt to the voter.

Mr. Redding, author of the resolution for the ndoption of the new apportionment, said he was willing to compromise and accept the suggestion outlined by Mr. Barrow, whereupon Mr. Barrow moved, as a substitute for the report of the commit tee, the resolution originally introduced by Mr Northen, as follows;

Resolved, That each county which, under the re-cent act, has lost a representative in the general as-sembly, shall be entitled to twice as many votes as it had representatives under the did apportionment, and each county which has gained a representative, shall be entitled to twice as many votes as it will have representatives under the new apportion-ment.

Upon this substitute Mr. I. E. Shumate called the previous question, and the resolution was carried The vote of the counties in detail will be found lsewhere. The result of this vote was to give all the counties under both apportionments their full representation. At this point an impatient dele gate made an effort to curb the impetuosity of de-bate, but Colonel Harris seriously objected to gagging debate.

THE RULES SQUARELY UP.

Mr. Walsh then obtained the floor and introduced resolution to the effect that the roll of counealled, that the the county meeting made at corded, and that that expression stand as the will of the people and the law of the convention. Mr. Livingstone hoped that the expressed will of the people would not be disregarded. Call the coun les, let the people speak, and let the result stand as the law of the party. Mr. Walsh explained that his resolution was in havor of speedy action. The people have already passed upon this question. All we have to do is to record their decision and act under it. The two-third rule was the result of a different condition of things from those which now exist. In no state of the north, of either party, is it the rule. In counties where the people have not formally spoken their action can be supplemented on this floor by their de legaces. Mr. Hoke Smith, of Fulton, could not vote for the resolution in its present shape. He wanted it brought up in more direct form.

Mr. Jemison-I rise to a point of order. Mr. Smith-I make a point of order on Mr. Jemi-on's point. Mr. Jemison-Mr. Smith cannot point a point or ay point,

Mr. Smith—The point has disappeared—gone, none knows where. The question should come up lirectly. I am in accord with those on the other side who profess harmony and good will. I will vote for any man who is nominated regardless of the rule under which it is done. I only hope that the other side will do the same. The time-honored rule 'ime-dishonored would be a more befitting term. I am much more in favor of the majority rule, than am of Mr Stephens. A strong man must have strong enemies-always enough to make one-third of a large body. Thus the rule cuts such men out. In comes a dark horse of whom nobody knowsanyning, whose only recommendation is that he never had will enough of his own to antagonize that of another. The two-thirds rule in conventions makes such candidates possible, and thus it is that people are becoming tired of conventions. Let the majority rule prevail. Mr. Simmons, of Gwinnett, offered the following as a substitute for all pending proposals: Resolved, That a majority, only, of the entire vote of this convention shall be necessary to nomi-He called the previous question upon this resolu-

The seene which ensued was of the noisest and ost uproarious description. The Bacon men were all at once on their feet gesticulating wildly, and ittering the wildest threats if the vote was forced. Mr. Harrison, of Quitman, begged Mr. Simmons to withdraw his call, but without effect. The chair vainly endeavored to restore order, and declared that a call for the previous question was not de going to express himself. He declared that if the majority men were right their cause could not sufthe previous question was a political cowardice.

It is infamous-it is infernal-it is, it is, it is, and he grew livid with rage, and his words were so incoherent that nothing could be made of them.

Mr. Speer moved adjournment, and the motion was declared lost. Mr. Harris demanded the yeas and tioned to be sustained. Mr Jemison-"I shan't be put down. You can't put me down."

A motion was made and acted upon by the chairman that all who were not delegates should retire.

Mr. Tutt, of McDuffie, moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the previous question was ordered. Mr. Simmons then agreed to withdraw the call itself, and thus the whole matter was placed properly before the house again.

Mr. Tutt-Is it not possible for the democracy to meet witnout such a scene as this. But this scene is due to the infamous two-thirds rule. What has that rule done for Georgia? Look here to-day. It ruined the last convention. The twe-thirds rule says the minority must be supreme. That was not at (harleston-ever since it has been fruitful of my masters here? The people of McDuffie county. Horrible Disaster in Albany-The Green-Eyed Mo ster-Tre Norgross Diamonds and the German Geologist-Thomaston Court Adjourn-ment-Fire and Death-Other News.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution

ALBANY, July 18 .- A horrible accident happened yesterday afternoon about one o'clock, at the county artesian well, in the court-house square, by which Wm, Berry, a well known colored man, was buried alive. I wrote you a day or two ago, that the augur or drill, after penetrating to a depth of more than 500 feet, ecame imbedded in quick sand so that it was impossible to withdraw it, or go on with the work. This necessitated the boring of another well, which was commenced within a few inches of the mouth of the first one. A pre-liminary to this was the driving down by piles to a depth of forty or fifty feet of that much of the outside iron casing. In doing this the casing became bent towards the bot-tom, and deflected from the perpendicular. When this was discovered it was determined when this was discovered it was determined by other contractor to remove it and begin anew. A shaft, some three by six feet, was accordingly sunk around the casing for this purpose. When this shaft had reached a depth of forty or more feet, and while the unfortunate victim of the accident was at work at the bottom, one side suddenly caved in and he was buried under about twelve feet of he was buried under about twelve feet of earth. Mr. Jackson, the contractor, had been down with him but a moment before, and was being drawn out, when the caving in oc-curred just below him in his ascent, He es-caped the same fate by about half a minute. caped the same fate by about half a minute. The work of removing the earth was immediately commenced, but it was necessarily slow, and it was not until after dark that the body of the unfortunate man was recovered. Much sympathy is expressed for the energetic contractor in the many mishaps, unlooked for and unavoidable, that have occurred during the progress of his work on this well. He was thoroughly overcome when he was drawn out and realized the nature of the accident that had occurred. A large crowd gathered in the square about the well as soon as the accident ne known, but it was a case where num bers could only impede and not aid the work.

THE GBEEN-EYED MONSTER.

A warrant was te en out yesterday by the Rev. Howard Punts, a very prominent colored clergyman of this place, and chaplain to the Stewart, another well known colored man, charging him with assault and battery. As occasionally happens in this world of ours, a woman was at the bottom of the trouble. It appears that the Rev. Bunts, among his varied occupations, teaches a music class, of which the wife and sister-in-law of Stewart are prominent members. For some unaccountable reason, the green-eyed monster had taken possession of Stewart, and on Friday night ast, about 11 o'clock, as he was approaching his house, he heard low and suspicious tones coming from within an enclosure near by. Having satisfied himself that Bunts was one of the interlocutors, he at once suspected that the other could be no other than the wife of his bosom. He at once secreted himself by the side of the way they were pursuing, and when Bunts and his partner came up, went to work upon the former with a stick. Being a good exemplar in his own person of muscu-lar Christianity, the Rey Russey lar Christianity, the Rev. Bunts grappled his assailant, and during the skirmish dealt him a severe blow over the head with a bottle. About this time it was liscovered that the Rev. Bunts was the right man and in the right place, his companion being the sister-in-law and not the wife of his assailant, whom Bunts was escorting home. Apologies and explanations were of no avail, and S. ewart was bound over by Judge Jones, of the county court, in $100 to stand his trial for assault and battery.

Many friends of the Hon. W. E. Smith around here appear to be only confident.

around here appear to be quite confident that his name will not be overlooked in con-nection with something or other in the convention to-morrow. As an outspoken candidate his chances would undoubtedly be good, while as a tied-out horse, he could not be matched from the mountains to the seaboard. It will be a fortunate day for the democratic party of Georgia, should division and dissen-sions occur in the convention, when they fall back upon a man who never made a mistake mpromised a principle.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.
Special Correspondence of The Constitution.
Canton, July 18.—Our citizens are making preparations to entertain the ministers, deletes and visitors who will be in attendance at the "annual district conference" of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, which meets at this place next Wednesday (to-mormeets at this place next Wednesday (to-mor-row). Distinguished divines are expected to be present, and the meeting promises to be one of much interest. Cherokee's delegates-elect will be on hand at the gabernatorial convention ready to voice the wishes of the democrats of this county. B. H. Turner and wife are visiting relatives in South Carolina, Crops are quite promising.

FIRE AND DEATH.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

DAHLONEGA, July 17.—On last night Mr. A.

H. Pitner, a merchant of Union county, died at this place after a protracted illness, aged 35 years. He was a leading citizen, a member of the Methodist church, and his loss will be deeply felt in his neighborhood. To day his remains was taken to his home in Gaddistown for interment. A farmer out on the town for interment. A farmer out on the Etowah river lost ten stacks of oats by fire a week ago. The estimated value of the oats was one hundred and fifty dollars. A match was accidentally ignited and set them on fire, which could not be extinguished.

BYRON BUSINESS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

Byron, Jury 18.—Judge Grice, of Houston, has entered the field against Colonel Robley D. Smith, of Crawford county, for senator from the twenty-third district. The campaign will be a lively one, and it is probable that the "fence question" will be a factor in the contest. The fields of cotton and corn look promising, and we expect abundant yields. The survivors of company E. Fifty-seventh Georgia regiment, will have a reunion at Fort Valley on Saturday the 22d of July.

THOMASTON TOPICS.

Thomaston, July 19.—Judge Willis, who has been holding court here since Monday, made an adjournment yesterday until Thursday next. Last three cases called and continued were divorce cases. Judge Willis stated that he was always willing to continue a divorce case in order to give the parties time to get together and make it up. Solicitor General Wammack was standing in the court room yesterday. Delegates to the state con-vention ail left yesterday.

ABOUT FRUIT GROWING.

some Facts About the Growing Importance of the Ir

From an Occasional Correspondent. LA GRANGE, July 18.—As a result of the well directed efforts of THE CONSTITUTION and well directed efforts of The Constitution and other Georgians are beginning to appreciate the fact that no other region on the continent offers superior inducements to the fruit grower. The happy combination of soil and climate existing here is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of fruits; many varieties reaching a perfection is size and flavor nowhere else attained. That the cultivation of fruits for market is profitable, has been demonstrated by experience, and now that cheap and rapid transportation to the great cheap and rapid transportation to the great cheap and rapid transportation to the great normnemental with its importance. Aside fact, this industry will receive that attention commensurate with its importance. Aside from the fact that as a market crop, it is very profitable, science teaches that in a warm climate like ours, fruit is not only a aluxury, but a necessity. During our long summers a too great use of meats, or other highly cor-bonized food will inevitably impair the health, and eventually terminate life The system demands a lib-eral fruit diet, and this demand must be heeded if health would be enjoyed. In view of these facts it requires no prophetic eye to see that the time is not far distant when the fruit crop will rank among our staples, and every home will have its orchard and its vine-

In order to make a success of fruit growing, new methods must be adopted. The habits of trees and the constituents of soils must be trees and the constituents of soils must be studied. Proper attention must be given to the orchard or disappointment will be the harvest. Most important of all, the culturist should be careful in the choice of his trees, both as to condition and variety. Only fine fruit pays, either for home use or for market; therefore choose the best. As well expect therefore thoose the best as well expect figs from thistles as superior fruit from inferior stock. Here the culturist is apt to experience difficulty, for in this matter he must trust almost entirely to his nurseryman.

Particularly is this nurseryman.

Particularly is this true of that large class who buy only a few trees for planting in gardens and yards. As a matter of practical importance to all who are interested in this subject. ect, it gives me pleasure to refer them to the nurseries of M. Cole & Co. of your city. From a personal acquaintance and from business dealings with this firm I unhesitatingly recommend them as thoroughy reliable. Of a considerable bill of trees and vines purchased from them some time since less than one per cent have died, and I am satisfied that even that trifling loss occurred through my own negligence. To-day my orchard is as green and flourishing as one would care to see. My experience is that of many others in this community, who have purchased of the Atlanta Nurseries. chased of the Atlanta Nurseries.

Perhaps, the finest specimen of a pear tree in the state came from these unreries, and is growing in the garden of Major A. D. Abraham in this city. It is of the Duches D'Anguleme variety, or dwarf stock, beautiful in size and shape and loaded with fruit. Its owner values it at one hundred dollars. Indeed all who have variabled of this firm hand deed all who have purchased of this firm have been, more than satisfied. It will certainly be to the interest of all who contemplate fruit-growing, on either a large or a small scale, to communicate with them, or with Mr. C. L. Croft, of Long Cane, their agent for this immediate section

THE NORCROSS DIAMONDS.

Truth Stranger Than Fletton-The Glittering Gems to be Found in Georgia.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

Noncaoss, Ga., July 17.—'Tis said that truth is stranger than fiction, and in this age of rush and development wonder follows on the heel

That the hills around Norcross are teeming with the hidden and untold wealth there is now no longer a reasonable shadow of dot bt. Let enterprising and intelligent citizens com, on to the diggins, and the sparkling, precious gems will rise out of the earth. They can be gems will rise out of the earth. They can be brought to the daylight from a thousand hills around this happy little town I have seen them with my own eyes by the peck, by the bushel, by the car load. Sparkling gems in clusters, pendant from the vine, the lucious grape, on these hills they never fail, and with the recent advantages of shipping there are williams in it. There is more vin fruit proper. millions in it. There is money in fruit, money in vegetables, money in grass and Jerseys, much more than in cotton. But the diamond story in The Sunday Constitution is a canard and we feel it our duty to correct so wild a statement. The author of this diamond puff perhaps did not intend to exaggerate, but was overenthused with the sparkle of the gem. His ground work has a bit of reality.

His ground work has a bit of reality.

THE OLD GERMAN GEOLOGIST.

The old German geologist is here—a very good, quiet citizen. His character is pretty well represented. He has, in truth, perhaps a diamond, and perhaps of some value. It is not near halfas big as a hen's egg, unless it be what is called a wind-up egg. He has had no offer from a New York company, and has never put it on the marketat all. I called on the old gentleman this evening with a friend the old gentleman this evening with a friend and formally congratulated him in a little speech, and read the article in The Constituspeech, and read the article in The Constitution and the editorial comments upon Georgia diamonds, and again congratulated him upon his sudden and well deserved affluence, and told him I was appointed chairman of a committee from the town to say to him that we rejoiced with him as the neighbors rejoiced with the woman who had found her piece of silver. The old gentleman listened with a sort of stupor was dumbfounded. His amazement was such that I will not attempt to describe it. He said that he found it several years ago, and that Stevenson & Hester. to describe it. He said that he found it several years ago, and that Stevenson & Hester. of Hall county, supposed it might be worth some thousands. He does not wish to sell it, but believes, like many others, that there is a diamond streak through Georgia. But if parties desire to come and delve for this kind of ore they need not fear a failure if be heard in the will only a receive full up, the boles with they will only properly fill up the holes with grapevines and stay with and watch and culrivate them intelligently.

GEORGIA GOLD.

From the Dahlonega, Ga., Mountain Signal

The first open cut quartz mining in Georgia or in the southern gold fields, was done by Colonel Robert H. Moore, an old and experienced miner of this county, who came into the mines in their early history, and extensively and successfully worked the placers for many years, until finally he took hold of quartz. After under-ground mining for some years, on different properties, he commenced to mine by means of the open cut. Like all valuable discoveries, this method had to have some one to advance the idea and others to carry it out. He dug down the vein matter and hauled it directly to the mill with carts, and soon found that it would pay, on account of having to crush so much dead matter. The property on which this cut was commenced, is located on Cane creek, three miles southwest of Dahlonega, and was then owned by a New York company. A short time afterwards, in the year 1858, Colonel Kelly, of New York, began to operate on the same lead in the same cut. Instead of dry mining, as his predeces-sor did, the mass was dug down and water allowed to wash the ore and slate for a short distance into sluice boxes, where the coarse quartz was taken from a screen and hauled to the mill, and the sand and free gold mostly allowed to pass off. With this improvement, the open cut method was yet a failure.

The mine was abandoned, and in the following year Captain Jack Huff took charge, who experimented in flooding for some time and finally run his ore, by means of water, directly into the mill, which was unanimous-ly adopted, wherever water could be obtained. Although this method of mining was adopted. t never became so popular until within the past two or three years.

Now we have spoken, briefly, of the past history of this wonderful, and great labor saving method of getting ore from the mines to the mill, and in our next issue we shall endeavor to grow in methods of mining, milling and gold saving, in full.

FROM THE MINE'S.

The Lockhart mills are running regularly as they have in the past, on good ore. The dam is already to be boarded. The canal will be finished to time. The outlook in general is lattering.

Like the Lockhart there is but little change in the Singleton since last reported. Rich specimens are being found in the cut and some satisfactory mill tests, made from the Gowdy lot.
Since the clean-up of last month we have not been able to visit the Columbia mine. Captain Robertson is occasionally in town and informs us of its progress When work enough has been done to show up just what the mine is, reguar trips will be made. In a few months their veins will be thoroughly opened, if the work goes on as rapidly as it has in the past.

The large vein in Ivey between the Martin and Ivey cuts is being opened and at the same time regular runs are being made from the old cut. The work of prospecting the new vein is just simply to know that the

the new vein is just simply to know that the ore is there, and that it will pay, The mill makes full time and there is nothing going on, only in a smooth and satifactory manner.

The Bast mine is working four men in the cut and three, day and night, in the mill. An addition of twenty four feet by eighty feet is being made to their reservoir, and when done it will supply them with water enough to wash their ore thoroughly. The Pigeon Roost mill is expected to be in running order in the course of a few weeks.

There is little or no change in Barlow since last week.

last week.

A considerable quantity of good ore is in sight in Findley, and we are informed that in a short time they hope to declare a dividend. The little giant is at work daily in tearing down the ore, and by the assistance of a few hands the fish trap mill is kept supplied. One would judge from the appearance of Mr. Lovell that everything wasgoing on smoothly. This mine is located in an extremely warm place and it is very nearly impossible to en dure the heat for the greater part of the day, though late in the afternoon (when the shades from Findley ridge begin to fall) it is very pleasant. So when you visit take advantage of the hour.

There is no change in the yield of the Keystone placer. The veins at present are not being worked for lack of a mill, though in the fourte one is expected to be built. in the future one is expected to be built.
Still the report of dynamite cartridges can be heard in the Danæ channel.

Captain Davis was at Gainesville last week, and there was not much done at the wells.

A 20-foot lead was struck at Auraria last week, which proves to be very good indeed. The mill is making regular time and the plates showing up very well. The Chicago and Georgia mine is doing equally as well as usual.

The Cleveland mine is reported as doing a petter business now than it has since the pur-

Work on the Loud great drain is rapidly going on, and in a short time the flume-line will be completed to Chatteau branch. Then immense amounts of gold will be taken out daily for years to come.

The work is going on rapidly at Calhoun, and in a short time this county can boast of this mine as being the most expensively equipped of any east of the great west.

GEORGIA MINING ITEMS.
From the Dawsonville Monitor. The gold mining business and speculation on property are getting, here in Georgia. every week more active, as parties from north and west are looking up gold mining property in every part of the state, and good property is in demand and commands fair prices. Our is in demand and commands fair prices. Our Georgia mining business of to day is no more a Wall street speculation, but a profitable, safe business, free of any risk. Knowing the yield of our ore per ton and per cubic yard of dirt, and knowing the cost for working them, I can ascertain exactly the profits to be made on the invested money, like the merchant, manufacturer and the farmer. One cause of the rise of our gold mining interests merchant, manufacturer and the farmer. One cause of the rise of our gold mining interests is in the fact, that the ore nowhere else can be crushed and worked so cheaply as here in Georgia, and next, it is now known and proved, that nowhere the ore yields a surer per centage or secures a better margin as here in Georgia, where the capitalists find en over n Georgia, where the capitalists find an ever lasting business, while we have exhaustless ore. Now let us add to the foresaid, as the cost of work per ton of our ore does not ex. cost of work per ton of our ore does not exceed 20 cents, so it can be seen that, even our poorer milling ore, valued at only $1 per ton, will leave a net pront of 75 to 80 per cent on every ton of ore, indeed a very generous profit, not taking in consideration our higher grade ore. As in reference to our deposit ground, it is a long-established fact that, while the cost of moving the dirt and gravel in the California placermines, by the hydraulic process, average 37 cents per cubic yard, here in Georgia, and this, according to the highest estimate, the cost is not more than 1.9 cents for the same labor, and this proves our great chances in that direction also.

In the future capital will more and more be ont to be specimens of gold bearing quartz. "Cast your eye on that, and that, and this," observed Lovell excitedly, "and tell me what you think of 'em!" "It's certainly quartz," said the reporter, "and its seems to be gilt-edged." The quartz specmens looked rich enough to be worth something, and they are, so Lovell alleges, worth a couple of thousand to the ton or so. Two a couple of thousand to the ton or so. Two months ago Mr. Lovell sold his oil interest in this field, and in casting about for a suitable investment for his loose capital, his eye fell on the gold fields in Georgia. He proceeded to Lumpkin county, and fit upon Dahlonega, in that county, as a suitable town for a man of his quiet domestic style. Len Willetts, of Belmont, is an equal partner in all his investments, The first move they made was to purchase a 10 stamp mill, and the next to nucrease its capacity to double the original, making it a 20 stamper. They have built reservoirs and flumes and other necessary etceteras to the cost of $70,000, which looks like a good deal of money to put into a single wildcat ina couple of thousand to the ton or so. Two to the cost of $70,000, which looks like a good deal of money to put into a single wildcat investment, but Sid explained that it is a reasonably safe one. Gold does not fluctuate like oil. He says that the Georgians are anxious for aid from northern capital, and that they freeze to a capitalist with all the tenacity of an oil country land shark. The operators are mostly all foreigners. Native capital has done very little toward the development of Georgia's mineral resources. The monthly output of gold he represents now at $30,000 output of gold he represents now at $30,000 with every prospect of an early increase. There are only fifteen or sixteen quartz mills running in the region, but within sixty days the crushing capacity will be doubled. August 1st in his opinion will see three hundred and fifty stamps at work in the Dahlonega district. Jabez A. Bostwick, the well-known oil buyer for the Standard oil company, her is trict. Jabez A. Bostwick, the well-known oil buyer for the Standard oil company, has invested about $200,000 in Georgia. He is erecting a forty-stamp mill. If old Jabez becomes interested in gold mining he will cut a big swath there, and no mistake, as he has the money at his back to do it with, and he has the whole Standard oil company to draw on if he gets in a tight pinch for a little money. Bostwick's is not the only forty stamp will Bostwick's is not the only forty stamp mill in the country, as there is one now in opera-tion there. But if the business should prove remunerative, Mr. Bostwick could run in a 1,000-stamp mill and monopolize it. If these Georgians ain't sharp he will do so from force

MEETING OF FENCE MEN. Dissatisfied Morgan County Men Who Favor a Fenc

A STRING OF CURIOUS STORIES

Killing a Grizzly and an Elk at One Shot-Lively Por pines-Shoals of Salmon-A Shewer of Sul-phur-A Corpse That C me to Life-A Ravine Puil of Skulis-Floridians.

From the Santa Fe News.

H. J. Sheldon left his camp at Cooper City on the Pecos, last Saturday afternoon in search of game. Saturday night he camped at the upper forks of the river, and Sunday, bright and early, was again on the march. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon the burro, which had wandered ahead, came running back, apparently in great terror, ears and tail erect, eyes glaring, making that peculiar mournful sound for which its species is noted, and refusing to be caught or comforted. Not being able to make out from the report of the confused burro just what had happened, Mr. S. cocked his gun and advanced slowly and cautiously on the unknown enemy Crawling along on his hands and knees for about a quarter of a mile he at length doubled a bend in the river, and there, standing in full view in the meadow, and not more than 150 yards away, he saw a huge grizzly bear with three cubs, and just a huge grizzly bear with three closs, and just beyond the bear and in direct range with her, an animal that he at once recognized as the long sought for elk. Neither of the beasts was aware of his approach, so, quietly rising upon one knee and resting his rifle across the other, which is Mr. S.'s favorite position in shooting, he took deliberate aim. Bang went the cone away sped the builts and down fell the gun, away sped the bullet and down fell two animals—in fact, three—the bear, the elk and Mr. S. himself. The bullet had cut the backbone of the bear completely in two, and, passing on through, had lodged in the heart of the elk; and the extraordinary task to which the rifle had been subjected produced such a violent recoil that the hunter himself such a violent recoil that the nunter himself was stretched flat upon the ground. Recovering himself speedily, Mr. S. advanced upon the prey, hunting knife in hand, but life was extinct in both animais. The little cubs, on hearing the report of the gun, fled; but, being only a few weeks old were speedily cap-tured, tied in bags and fastened on the back

Four Porcupines on a spree.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Four porcupines got on a spree Sunday in the establishment of Mr. James Gorman, Exchang building. They had been locked up from Saturday, the intention being to send them soon to Druid Hill park, but the weather proving warmer than the porcupines had been used to they got a little fretful and re-leased themselves. Freed of their shackles they investigated the ice chest, where the mint grows, and interviewed sundry phials in which sweet oil is kept, and floundered around among the thin and delicate drink glasses, and seemed to have had a good time generally to judge from the costly fragments and the admixture of wines, brandy, whisky, sweet oil, etc., with which the place was strewn when it was opened on Monday morning. The straws used for julips and "sich" being on a high shelf was out of reach, and that probably accounts for the number of quills which the porcupines pulled from each other and left on the floor. It was stated in the Evchange building vesterday stated in the Exchange building vesterday that the porcupines were caught at Tivoli last week and were presented by Mr. Cutaiar to Mr. Gorman.

FISHING FOR SALMON WITH SHOVELS.

From the Territorial Enterprise.

An eastern paper sneers at the story that a horse found difficulty in fording a creek in Washington territory, on account of the crush of salmon going up stream, coming with such force and so thick as to interfere with its footing. There is no exaggeration about this. In some of the small er streams, tributary to the me of the smal er streams tributary to the some of the smaler streams troutary to the Snake and Columbia the salmon when going up are so numerous that the weaker fish are crowded out on to the banks and for miles the banks are strewed with dead fish thus thrown up. Less than fifteen years ago the Mormone, used to dig. selmon out of the Mormons used to dig salmon out of the streams with shovels in Idaho and ship so much of the salted fish to the Utah settlements that the article was as much of a drug on the market as the sorgum cured grassheppers, which were the cheapest and most plen-

MONEY AT THE ROOTS OF A TREE. From the Missouri Republican.

A singular case is announced in Union township, Jasper county, Missouri. Last fall Mr. Kickner, an old map, died. Just before his death he tried to tell his family about some money buried at the foot of a tree, but they did not get the description and hardly a full meaning of the subject. The incident was talked of, and one of the neighbors hearing of it began a search, and, it is thought, found the money. He went to the nation and used $2,500 in a purchase, and his friends cannot imagine how he could become possessed of that much money. They also found a place near a tree that had been recently excavated, with a blaze on a sapling near by and a marked stick driven into the ground.

STRANGE MUSIC IN A NEVADA MINE.
From the Homer Index.
It is not often that the honest miner meets with animal life while delving in the depths of the earth, and more rare and surprising still is the warbling of birds or chirruping of crickets in the walls of a quartz vein passing into a olid granite mountain, but for the past week the miners engaged in driving the tunnel into the Grizzly lode, on the northern slope of Mount Snowden, have been hourly greeted with such sounds, proceeding from above and beyond the hanging wall on their left, about sixty-five feet in from the portals of the tunnel. The sound is usually kept up from three to ten minutes at a time, and sometimes re-sembles the chirruping of a cricket and sometimes that of a bird.

A RAVINE FULL OF SKULIS.

From the Little Rock Gazette. While plowing in a field in Faulkner county, Arkansas, recently George Smith saw a ravine which had been washed by a recent overflow of the Black Fork and in which reposed a large number of human skeletons lying in natural positions, together with several earthen bowls, shells, arrows, leaden bullets, etc. The skulls were all encased in vessels made of clay. while one, with handsomely engraved orna-ments, denoted that the skull belonged to an unusually important personage. The farm has been under cuttivation over forty years, and relies denoting the existence there at one time of a prehistoric race have been frequently found.

ALIVE AFTER HIS SUPPOSED DEATH.

From the Iowa State Register. Frank Stoop, who resides near Clarinda, Iowa, was ill with consumption, and on Thursday of last week, he to all appearances died; and his body was prepared and laid out for burid. Suddenly he resided himself. for burial. Suddenly he revived, raised himself up on the board on which he was laid, and inquired of the crowd in the room what it all meant. He was still alive at last accounts.

WHAT SOME LITTLE FLORIDIANS SAW.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Some Outspoken Statements of Great Value from Parties of the Hignest Standard.

When the people of America become so thoroughly aroused, and on a subject of such serious impactors as the control of the serious importance as the preservation of their lives and health, it is but natural that the ones who have been largely instrumental in ones who have been largery instruments in the origin of this movement should speak frankly and directly to the people most in-terested. It is for this reason that we thus come before the public and make the follow ing regulations:

ng revelations: Every careful observer who has sought to keep pace with the march of events, has goted the ala ming increase of certain peculiar physical troubles within the past lew years. These troubles have come at unexpected moments and in a most treacherous way. They have manifested themselves in innumerable forms, but they have always had the same cause. They have not afflicted the minor parts of the body, but have gone direct to the strongholds of the system and their work has usually been as prompt as it is fatal. Their treacherous and deceptive nature, has often prevented a careful analysis of what causes them, and, as a result, intense suffering and final, disaster have usually ensued. The real cause, however, has been a derangement of the kidneys, and all of these troubles are, in fact, the first symptoms of the terrible Bright's disease, which has cast its dark shadow over so many homes in the land, and is increasing wonderfully and continually. It is now conceded by the ablest physicians in every land and by eminent scientists the world over, that this disease is the result of blood poisoning. This poisoning is brought about by wasted and unhealthy kidneys that permit the poison to remain in the blood, instead of throwing it from the system. But it is equally evident to all who have studied into the effects and have become conversant with the facts, that a disordered state of the kidneys and liver pro duces most of the common complaints and pains which afflict the human race, and they can be traced to this source just as certainly as can Bright's disease. To purify a stream we must go to its source, and to cure a disease we must remove the cause. It being true therefore, that nine-tenths of all human ailments are caused by diseased kid-neys or liver, the only certain way to cure these troubles is by treating the organs which cause them. How intimately the kidneys are associated with the entire system may be un derstood from the fact that over 1,000 Junces of blood pass through them every hour, being more than 200 gallons, or nearly one ton in the course of twenty-four hours. This vast mass of living fluid is sent to every part of the body, and if the kidneys are diseased the impurities that are in the blood are not removed, and hence pass through the veins, carrying disease in some one of its many terriole forms. The horrors which accompany most of the diseases caused by disordered kidneys and liver cannot be described in print, while the dan-gers surrounding them are even greater than the agony. And yet a person may be troubled for months without knowing the cause of the diseases that have attacked him. Some of the symptoms of the first stages, any one of which indicates disordered kidneys or liver are these: Pains in the back and around the loins, severe headaches, dizziness, inflamed eyes, a coated tongue and a dry mouth, loss of appetite, chilly sensations, indigestion (the stomach never is in order when the kidneys or liver are defanged), a dryness of the skin, nervousness, night sweats, muscular de-bility, despondency, a fired feeling especially at night, puffing or bloating under the eyes, etc. If any of the following things are no-ticed about the fluids passed from the system, it shows that the kidneys and liver are out of order: A red deposit, a scum upon the surface, an unusual thickness or thinness, a very dark or a very light color, a burning sensation in passing, an unusual odor, a retention or a frequent desire to void and inability to a frequent desire to void and inability to do so.

The above are a few of the hundreds of symptoms which indicate the beginning of a gravated cases of kidney or liver difficulties, and they require instant attention. If these symptoms are not checked at once, they are a'most certain to result in some one of the many terrible diseases of the kidneys. But unpleasant as all the symptoms and even these diseases may be, they are as nothing compared to the last stages of the complaints. The kidneys waste away by de-grees, accompanied by intense pains; the neart becomes uncontrollable; the lungs are oppressed; the eyebalis grow glassy, and the entire system is reduced and debilitated. For weeks before death comes the sufferer looks forward to it as a blessed relief, looks forward to it as a blessed refler, and anything that can furnish even temporary help is gladly hailed. Then it is that bloating begins; the face becomes puffy and pallid; the breath can only be caught in gasps, speech is impossible and nuscular action suspended. The patient finally sinks into a state of unconsciousness to everything except the pains which are rack ng him, and death comes by certain but slow legrees. There can be but one conclusion which all readers of care and judgment will lraw from these facts, which is the necessity of treating the disease in time and by that neans which has been proven the best and

It has been our privilege to treat more cases and effect more cures of this terrible complaint than has ever been known before in praint than has ever been known before in the history of the world. The wonderful sale which our remedies have attained is due wholly to the fact that they have cured the ones who have used them. The power and value of any remedy must rest wholly on a basis of worth, and here is just where our Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has fown I its wonder full power and success. But in the connection ful power and success. But in this connection comes one important fact: It has always been true that articles of merit are subject to. mitations. No one seeks to counterfeit the bills of a worthless bank. The productions of a cracked inventor or witless writer are never copied. It is just so with a healing remedy If it possesses no merit it will not be subjected to imitations. If, however, it has power and value, imitations will spring up on every side. While it is a tribute to the value of this medicine that it has imitations, still, in justice to those who are suffering, we feel that all should be warned against them.

There is but one known remedy that has ever been able to cure serious kidney troubles or control these great organs when once de ranged, and that remedy is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cura. There are numer ous nostrums on the market claiming to be just as efficient and some which even claim to be the same. The test of merit, however, is in what has been accomplished, and we, therefore, say unhesitatingly that for all diseases of the kidneys, liver, and urinary organs Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure stands alone, not only in point of excellence, but in the wonderful results it has achieved. In order to successfully avoid the achieved. In order to successfully avoid the purchase of spurious and injurious medicines observe these facts:

Our remedy is put up in dark amber glass ottles, with the Safe (our trade mark) blown in the back. A private proprietary six cent internal revenue stamp is affixed to the neck and covers the top of the cork, and is of a light brown color. In the middle thereof is a Safe in outline, and on it the picture of a negro gathering herbs. If this stamp is not found on every bottle of the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, or if there is any evidence that it. Liver Cure, or if there is any evidence that it has been tampered with, and if a Safe is not blown on the back of the bottle, reject the bottle at once, and insist on having a genuine

We are led to publish the foregoing in order that the public may know and realize just where we stand. We have always sought to keep our personality from obtruding upon the public, knowing full well that the value of our remedy was the essential thing, but the unexampled use which has been made of this medicine, and the volumes of letters we are WHAT SOME LITTLE FLORIDIANS SAW.

A HARMONIOUS CONVENTION.

The temper of the convention on yesterday was admirable. A more thoroughly goodnatured and harmonious convention wa never assembled in Georgia, preceded by a contest.

None of the bitterness that has appeared in certain newspapers, was apparent in the convention, and the attempt to create dissatisfaction over the action of the convention has certainly failed. It was harmony and nothing but harmony, that was the spirit and the toast of the delegates. There were spirited joists here and there and determined fighting for favorites as there should have been, but after the majority rule was once passed and the result made clear, there was a very near approach to a love feast-deadly opponents of Mr. Stephens urged that his nomination be made unanimous, and one declared that he wanted no better platform than Alec Stephens's name.

The convention will doubtless finish its work to-day. It may be that an attempt will be made to reconsider the two-thirds rule, and that a ballot may be had on the governorship. There is certain to be a pretty sharp tussle over the race for congressman-at-large, though we hope a short one. In all that is done we invite the harmony and good humor that characterized the session of yesterday. Another day like that will send the candidates to the front, backed by an enthusiastic and harmonious democracy, and the old-time majorities will be rolled up. THE CONSTITUTION has avoided bitterness in the campaign. We have been urged and provoked into saying some things that perhaps had better been left unsaid. In all that we have said, however, we have had the good of the state and of the party first in our mind and we are glad to see that the convention is on the same line and has put principles above men and harmony above prejudice. Twelve hours more of harmony and the state can rise up and thank the delegates for a great and patriotic work.

THE CONSTITUTION'S COUNT. The roll-call of yesterday evening more than vindicated the estimate of THE CONSTI-TUTION on the vote for the rule. We have no criticism for those journals that persisted the republican party are owned by manuin counting the two-thirds as ahead of the majority, but we de feel justified in calling attention to the accuracy of our prediction. · On Sunday morning we stated that 175 votes were instructed or outspoken for the majority rule, and that to this list must be added Richmond 6 and Fulton 6, making 187 sure votes for the rule. This estimate was laughed at as wild and exaggerated. We referred our critics to the roll-call. On yesterday that test was applied and the result was that the majority rule received 195 4-5, or 7 votes more than our estimate.

This is but another evidence of the care and accuracy with which THE CONSTITUTION forecasts the results of a convention, and adds the totals of the primaries. The roll-call of this morning will give a like justification of our estimate of the Stephens vote. The truth is THE CONSTITUTION cannot afford to be either careless in its collation of data or partial in the presentation of them. Our reputation for accuracy in these matters, established by the most searching tests and under the most trying circumstances, is worth more to us than the election of a dozen candidates. Our readers may rest assured, therefore, that our estimates in this, as in all similar matters, ropresents our best judgment, candidly stated. With these remarks we await the roll-call of this morning, and still stick to our estimate of Mr. Stephens's strength.

THE TAX SHAM.

After spending the people's money lavishly -after tossing $100,000,000 to the pension grabbers and $20,000,000 to rivers and harbors. not to mention innumerable sums of lesser amount, but of equal profligacy, the republican majority in congress has determined to silence apprehended clamor over the burden of taxation, by passing a so-called tax reduc-The senate bill tion bill. however a fraud in every rerespect except that it will, if it becomes a law, reduce the revenue about $40,000,000. Very little of this sum will be taken from the shoulders of the people. Of the taxes totally repealed the people will get the benefit of $3,278,000 the people will get the benefit of $3,278,000 to an appreciative review of Mrs. Banks's "Bright out of $11,136,000. The repeal of the stamp Days in the Old Plantation Time." taxes on perfumery, patent medicines, cosmetics, etc., simply amounts to an appropriation of $1,843,000 each year to be apportioned among the manufacturers of these luxuries. The proposed reduction, cannot be deducted from the retail price, because it is too small per package to be deducted. The republicans, therefore, propose to donate about two millions a year to a few manufacturers. The repeal of the tax on checks does not help the people who have no bank accounts, and the zation.

repeal of the tax on bank capital and bank deposits is wholly a proposition to increase the profits of national bankers. No one else will be benefited, for the taxes in question do not amount to $3,000,000 all told. The match tax is the sole outcome of all this precended. effort to repeal burdensome taxes.

When we come to the items of "reduction" we also find fraud and deception running through them. The entire force of officeholders is retained, down to the spies of lowest grade, and yet there is no reduction of taxes worth the name. In order to clearly show the sham nature of the bill we give below a table taken from the New York * Tax prohibitory. † Tax remains prohibitory. Is there any one who believes that the re duction in the licenses paid by dealers in man ufactured tobacco, or on cigars, or on cigar ettes, will benefit in the least the consume who buys at retail? And yet these are the only considerable reductions in this part of the bill. The other items were put in for show's sake, and the entire portion of the bill relating to tobacco is a fraud so far as the people are concerned. It will put some money in the pockets of dealers and reduce the reve It is a counterpart of the repeal of the tax on cosmetics, etc Perhaps, the rarest fraud in the bill is found in the last item, by which a tax of $6 a thousand on eigarettes is gravely reduced to $4, although the tax only yields $54 a year. The tax on retail dealers in leaf tobacco is also reduced from $500 to $250, although the latter is as prohibitory as the former. And yet these provisions are to be proclaimed from the house tops as great boons to the people! To the end of the bill we find a similar degree of fraud and sham. Take for instance the reduction of $1,328,000 on Bessemer rails, or $8 a ton. The present duty is $28 a ton. The cost of steel rails in England at present is $30 a ton. Add $20 to this, and we have a tax as prohibitory as the present duty. Such a sham reduction would not affect the revenue, or help the men who are trying to develop the country. It would not affect the present selling price of steel rails in this country, although it is fully $15 a ton higher than it is in England

There is no reduction whatever on such taxed articles of necessity as these: Rice, 105 per cent; chloroform, 85 per cent; acetate of soda, 215 per cent: caustic, 63 per cent; strychnia, 81 per cent; cotton prints (valued at 14 cents per yard), 59 per cent; spool thread (that gigantic monopoly), 78 per cent; window glass, 39 per cent; plate glass, 109 per cent; boiler iron, 74 per cent; hollow ware, 82 per cent; castor oil, 85 per cent; woolen goods, from 58 to 140 per cent. Many woolen goods bear a prohibitory tax. From beginning to ending the pending bill is a sham and an electo deceive the people. The men who control facturers and capitalists, and these men have no thought of relieving the people of any considerable amount of taxation. They may label a measure "a boon to the public," but no intelligent man will be deceived thereby. Consumers are just beginning to under stand the real scope and nature of the protec tion swindle,, and a groundswell is coming

TILLMAN'S TALK

ABOUT THE CONTESTED SOUTH CAROLINA SEATS

Animated Discussi n in the House on the Smalls Tillman Election Case—Hard Sparring Between Republicans and Democrats—Cl. wa Horr —Randall's Rulings—Cther Notes.

WASHINGTON, July 19.-Immediately after the eading of the journal the house resumed the consideration of the South Carolina contested election case of Smalls vs. Tillman.

Washington, July 19 .- After speeches by Mr. Briggs, of New Hampshire, in support of the claims of thescontestant, and by Mr. Atherton, of Ohio, in favor of the claims of the sitting member, Mr Horr, of Michigan, took his stand in the space in front of the speaker's desk, and with a small cane pointed out to the house the boundary lines of the congressional districts of the state of South Carounder the recent redistricting. He also produced diagrams of each district separately, and declared that it was not gerrymandering, 1t was downright villainy. Mr. Atherton, of Ohio, inquired whether that gerrymandering was not as fair as the gerrymandering of the fourteenth district of Ohio, which was to inflict on congress another one of the

Mr. Horr replied that when congress was inflicted More Serpel.

Mr. Horr replied that when congress was inflicted with his brother he could take care of himself. Mr. Horr, after ridiculing gerrymandering, said that just as long as the people of the south attempted to destroy the ballot box by that kind of chicanery, so long as they strove by that means to prevent the honest expression of honest voers, just so long their representatives on this floor would have to defend such methods; and just so long they would make for the north that positical sentiment which would keep its side in support of that party which would not resort to that kind of villainy. He created a good deal of merriment and frequently elicited the applause of his party friends by his denunciation of the South Carolina blan of redistricting, and his time was extended by unanimous consent. Mr. Evans, of South Carolina, desired to reply to some of Mr. Horr's remarks, but Mr. Mackey, of South Carolina, objected. Mr. Maulton. of Illinois, and Mr. Simonton, of Teonessee, submitted arguments in support of the sitting member, and then Mr. Miller, of Pennsylvania, yielding a portion of his time to the floor, it was awarded to Mr. Evans, who briefly replied to Mr. Horr's speech denying to the government of the country.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, sent to the clerk's desk for exhibition a small drawing of a district in Illinois, which he declared bore a strong resemblance to districts in South Carolina, to which gentlemen from Michigan have objected. Mr. Robinson, of New York, said that while the question of gerrymandering was under discussion he desired to call attention to the shape of the district which he represented and which was known as the Dumbbell.

Mr. Tillman, of South Carolina, spoke in his own beh lf, but addressed himself especially to the question of the propriety of the house deciding upon the election and the returns of its members. He thought that a great fault of the constitution lay question of the propriety of the house deciding upon the election and the returns of its members. He thought that a great fault of the constitution lay in the provision which allowed the house to judge of the election of its members because gentlemen had party politics eternally exciting their prejudice, and making them determine contrary to law, evidence and justice. There was another cause why justice could not be done, and that was on account of the new propagandism in which the republican party had been engaged for twenty years to effect of "universal fatherhood of God and universal brotherhood of man." In espousing that doctrine it had attempted to reverse the laws of God Almighty and it falled and would continue to fail. That doctrine would lead to the enfranchisement of Asiatic hordes which would overwhelm every civilization. For these and other reasons it was impossible for the house to judge of the impartiality of election cases, and he favored the creation of a court to determine facts in each case.

He then proceeded to reply to Mr. Horr, whom he characterized as having piaged the buffoon. While that gentleman had been prancing around like a clown in the circus, pleading against a wrong which had been done to the negroes and the redistricting of South Carolina, he (Tillman) could not help remembering that there were 165,000 voters in Michigan who did not vote the republican ticket, and who were gerrymandered out of any representation on this floor. Unfortunately since 1876, the people of South Carolina had collected a little property and he was afraid from the unceremonious manner in which the choice of the people were kieked out of this body that there was another ring forming to sweep down upon them to rob them of what little subsance they had accumulated. If the republicans went on as they have been going on he was satisfied that the south would be reconstructed, and reconstructed

PURPOSE OF PLUNDER. He said that as far as his case was concerned, the republicans were impatient to finish their work; but that would not disturb his equanimity in the least. He had discounted long ago the worst they could do. He was satisfied that though Shelley and himself were going to be turned out and they would come back to the next congress; and they would come back by negro votes. He would be a candidate again unless his constituents wished a change, and if any of the republican stump orators from Blaine down. [A republican interrupting—Horr?]

In reply to the question as to the object of the South Carolina legislature in putting all the negroes into one congressional district, he said, amid much laughter, that it was in order that a colored democrat might be sent to congress and around the streets praying with puritan Jesuitism like the Pharisee of old: "I thank God I am better than the contrasted the way in which republicans stood by their men with the manner in which he had been treated by his own party, when contesting his seat in the Forty-fifth congress.

His remarks were relished by both sides of the house, and were listened to with an interest not often exhibited. During the progress of the debate on the election case his description of the hopes and fears and an expectant contestant, were very amusing, and were greeted with great laughter. In conclusion he earn-saly commended, "in the last speech I will make to this congress." the adoption of some plan whereby election cases should be decided in some other tribunal than the house of representatives.

Boggs, of New Hampshire, subm A YANKEE SPEECH.

Boggs, of New Hampshire, submitted an argument in support of the claims of the contestants After stating the election laws of the state, and the United States statutes relating to supervisions of elections, he asserted that in nearly every precinct of five of the counties composing this district the state and national laws were trampled under foot by election officers. He gave instances where supervisors appointed under the United States statute had been interfered with, and driven by violence from their posts of duty, and prevented from performing the functions of their office. He called attention to the vote certified to the governor and upon which Mr. Tillman's election certificate was based, comparing the size of same with the population of omparing the size of same with the population everal counties and showed that it was largely several counties and showed that it was largely in excess of the actual voting poculation of these five counties. He then described frauds which, according to the testimony, had been perpetrated and the violence and intimidation resorted to in various precincts of this district for the purpose of suppressing and destroying the republican vote therein. The previous question was then ordered and the debate was closed by Mr. Miller, of Pennsyivania, who reviewed in detail the testimony in the case and maintained that Smalls had been legally elected. The minority resolution, declaring Tillman entitled to remain in his seat, was defeated without division, and the question recurred upon first resolution of majority, declaring that Tillman was not elected. It was agreed to yeas 145, nays 1-exactly lution of majority, declaring that Tillman was no elected. It was agreed to yeas 145, nays 1—exactl a quorum. Next the resolution declaring Small entitled to the seat was carried—yeas 141; nays 5 being Ford of Missouri, Rice of Missouri, Harden burg of New Jersey, Jones of Texas and Calkins of Indiana, Mr. Calkins, in casting his vote in the negative, said that he did so because he conscientiously believed that the election should be relegated to the people, which led that there were not more conscientious men on the republican side. The speaker then stated in footing up the former vote, yeas, 145: nays, 1, that the clerk had made a mistake and that the vote should have been yeas, 144: nays, 1. It would, he said, have made no difference, because the chair now voted in the affirmative; thus making a quorum. Mr. Randall objected to the speaker voting as being azainst all precedent. of Wisconsin said that precedent had been set by the gentleman from Pennsylvania himself when speaker, and quoted from an occurrence in the 44th congress. The circumstances of that case were as follows: On suspension Monday the bill was passed by exactly a two-thirds vot. On the following day Mr. Plaisted, of Maine, stated that he had voted in the negative, and Mr. Fuller, of Indiana, that he voted in the affirmative, but neither vote was recorded. This left the measure lacking one vote of the necessary two-thirds, and the speaker (Bandail) thereupon claimed and exercised his constitutional right to vote on any question before the house, and voted in the affirmative.

RANDALL DENIES.

The journal of the proceedings having been read, Randall declared that it was not a similar case with the present and that at that time no objection was made, whereas now there was objection Mr. Blackburn said that for the sake of making a precedent he would like the chair to rule whether the elevation of a member to the speaker's chair vested him with any right which no other member possessed, that of casting his vote, i. e., after the roll call had been completed and the final result announced.

The speaker replied that the speaker did not com within the rule applying to members, in, as much as his name did not appear on the roll call. Ther was a good deal of feeling exhibited on the demo cratic side over this. Mr. Blackburn, in an aside to Robinson, asserted to be an intentional error on the part of the clerk; and Mr. Calkins in view of this assertion offered a resolution directing an investigation to be made into the matter. Mr. Blackburn having, however, left the chamber the resolution was postponed until to morrow.

TOBACCO TAX TALK.

The Reduction of Internal Revenue Tax on To bacco-Mahone's Idens.

Washington, July 19.—The senate again took up the revenue tax bill and resumed the discussion of Mr. Beck's amendment reducing the tax to twelve Mr. Beck's amendment reducing the tax to twelve cents. Mr. Bayard spoke in favor of the amendment as calculated to benefit largely the retail dealer to the prejudice of the consumer and producer. He thought the difference between the old and new rate would be so slight that a dealer would take advantage of the reduction and continue to charge the same rate. He preferred to have the tax fixed at 8 cents per pound, as this would secure a substantial reduction, the benefits of which would enter the factories. ducer alike He gave notice that when the third section of the bill was reached he would move to reduce the rate to 8 cents. In regard to the rebate clause he strenuously advocated its restoration, and asserted that this was due to the manufacturers and dealers as a matter of common honesty. The tobacco interest of the country are unanimous in advocacy of the rebate.

In confirmation of his assertion he quoted from the statements of leading manufacturers and read a letter from P. Lorillard & Co., who, he said, manufactured tweaty-two million pounds and paid-ufactured twenty-two million pounds and pale government revenue of from three to four million dollars per annum. The letter a signed the follow ing reasons in support of the rebate clause: I would be an act of justice to those who had paid ing reasons in support of the rebate clause: It would be an act of justice to those who had paid the tax on the cost price, as a reduction in rate depreciates the value of stock on hand by that much. It would not be necessary to provide that a long period shall intervene to enable the manufacturers and dealers to provide for a lower rate of tax while the regular operations of employes and operatives will not be suspended nor disturbed. The firm suggests a reduction to 8 cents in preference to 10 cents, as this would leave the tax at exactly one-half cent per ounce: thereby avoiding fractions in calculation of owners and saving trouble in many ways; but in the event of reduction or total abolition authority should be given to repay to dealers who have large stocks on hand the tax paid on all unbroken packages as otherwise many dealers would be seriously crippled and others driven into bankruptcy.

On the other hand, fixing a day in the future at which the reduction shall make effect, will virtually throw out of employment thousands of dependent operatives and materially reduce the price of leaf tobacco, as manufacturers cannot buy when they cannot work, and the only parties benefitted will be buyers for foreign governments and foreign dealers. From another authority in Cincinnati the speaker quoted that if the tax be reduced one-half to eight cents consumers will obtain at once the ROCKS AHEAD speaker quoted that if the tax be reduced one-hair to eight cents consumers will obtain at once the full benefit of the reduction which will be exactly one-haif cent per ounce. A reduction of 6 cents would in many, if not most, cases chiefly benefit the retailer and but little the consumers. There was an advantage in having the new rate a divisor of the old. THE OTHER VIRGINIA SENATOR

THE OTHER VIRGINIA SENATOR.

Senator Johnson expressed himself in favor of abolition of tobacco tax, and of the entire internal revenue system. The people whom he represented regarded that system as a feature of a dispotic government and they despised the informers and the restraints it imposed on them. Finally a vote was taken and Senator Beck's amendment, fixing the tobacco tax on and after January 1, 1883, at twelve cents per pound and it was agreed to. Yeas, 29; nays, 26.

ARABI'S VIEWS

LONDON July 19.-A dispatch from Constantinople to the Times says that according to a communica-tion received here, Arabi Pasha maintains that the combardment of Alexandria was a hostile act to Egypt and contrary to the rights of the sultan, and that he was fully justified by law and by a decision of the council of ministers in replying to the British fire. The kh-dive, he argues, in accepting English soldiers as body guard has shown that he considered the Egyptian army as enemies. By internanational and its his duty to defend the country; and the khedive ordered to suspend military preparations is analagous to the order of the bey of Tunis at the time of the Frenen invasion. Arabi Pasha's forces are said to be increasing. The hesitation in at acking him at once is regarded as a fatat mistake by the authorities here, English and foreign. It is stated that wounded natives have been paraded in Cairo for the purpose of exciting animosity. At the request of several residents the American consular authorities have ordered a French shop in the same building with the consulate opened, and respectable residents allowed to help themselves to such articles as they require on signing dectarations showing what they have taken.

FINANCIAL FACTS NEW YORK, July 19,-The stock market was rregular at the opening, but a majority of the acive list showed an advance in prices ranging from to 1 per cent. The notable exceptions were Manattan Beach and Louisville and Nashville, the former being 1% and the latter % percent lower. In the early dealings Manhattan Beach recovered 3/4 and Louisville and Nashville 21/2 per cent. The general list, however, was strong and brisk and irchases of leading shares caused an advance, which reached its greatest height about half-past 1 clock, when an improvement ranged from 1/4 to per cent, latter for Memphis and Charleston. Other tocks prominent in the rise were St. Paul, Minnesota and Manitoba, Canada Southern, Lake Shore, sota and Manitoba, Canada Southern, Lake Shore, Eric and Western, Michigan Central, Denver and Rio Grande, Richmond and Danville, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Wabash and New Jersey Central. Subsequently Memphis and Charleston fell off 3-per cent, Lake Eric and Western 22/per cent, and the general list ½ to 1½ per cent, but in the final dealing there was a partial recovery and the market closed fairly steady. The rise for the day ranged from ½ to 3½ per cent. Some few shares, however, were lower than at the close yesterday, notably Manhattan Beach, Louisville and Nashville. Transactions aggregated 511,000 shares.

Mr. Glenn again called the previous question. Mr. Hunt moved adjournment, and the motion was lost. Mr. Harrison asked for a call of the roll on the previous question authorizing the vote on the rules, and gave notice that he would to-morrow move for a reconsideration of to-day's action.

Mr. Barrow closed the debate in a speech of much eloquence and good pleading. He intimated that there were candidates who, failing to secure a twothirds vote, were ready to be impaled on the horns of a majority vote. A shrewd politician, with the prestige of a great name, of familiar acquaintance with the art of reading the distant primaries, could succeed often in getting together a bare majority of a convention. I want a man who has not sought the office-who has no enemies to punish, no grievances to avenge-no promises to keep made in the heat of a bitter campaign. Stand to the rule under

A SUDDEN CRY FOR STEPHENS. The movement over the house was electrical-Mr W A Harris took the floor and declared that he was in favor of W E Smith for governor—the man who never consented to Hayes's theft of the presidency. But Mr. Stephens had a majority in the convention. The majority rule was adopted. All good democrats must stand together. I move that Mr Stephens be nominated by acclaration: I mean it when I say it—the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens. Mr Harris insisted on talking, but his friends held him down. Mr B E Russell complained that Mr Harris had anticipated him; he had sought the floor to make the nomination. Mr D A Russell said he was for stephens, but he was not in favor of hasty action. Mr Bacon is a patriot, a gentle man worthy of promotion, and it is but fair that he—be given a chance to consult with his friends. Mr. Harris again called for Stephens by acclamation. Mr Walsh moved that nominations be regularly taken up. Mr Harris renewed his motion as a substitute for that of M. Waish. Mr Jemison azain, smiling as he came forward, addressed the chair. He said that even the hardest sinners may repent, therefore he would esteem it a privilege to be allowed to second the nomination will not be done lightly, and with all the gravity possible. Mr. Harris said that his voice would be heard in the piney woods for Stephens and democracy. I have buried my prejudices. I leve William E. Smith, but I see there is no chance for him, and now I love Alexander H. Stephens because he is the choice of the democracy of Georgia. On the call of the regular order, the shair recognized Mr. Ben E. Russell, and in a neat little speech he formally nominated Mr. Stephens Mr. Barrow insisted on nominating Mr. Bacon, and marrated the peculiarities which bound them together. The roll was ordered, but ton suggestion of many Bacon delegates that if an adjournment were taken until 9 o'clock this morning they felt sure Mr. Stephens's name would be taken up by acclamation, the suggestions were agreed to and the convention separated amid questions and answers The movement over the house was electrical Mr W A Harris took the floor and declared that he

BAKING POWDERS.

Major Bacon's Cancus.

The friends of Major Bacon held an informal meeting at the Kimball, last night, in Major Bacon's parlors There was not a full attendant the Bacon delegates, but the parlors were well dided and a full consideration was had of the steps which it was thought best to pursue. This meeting, as well as the one of the previous night, was strictly private, and the deliberations were kept as near ecret as possible. It is known, however, that Major Bacon's name will be withdrawn, and the discussion in the caucus last night was to a considerable extent, upon the best method of procedure. Some of the delegates were of the opinion that a friend of Major Bacon should withdraw the name, while others contended that he should do it himself. The programme was finally decided upon, about as follows: As soon as the convention is called to order this morning some gentleman, probably one of the Stephens delegates, will move that Major Bacon be invited into the hall to address the convention. Major Bacon will then address the convention and withdraw his tation late last night, and it may be that this pro ramme will be changed. It was suggested that he e nominated for congressman-at-large, but he flatly refuses to consider such a proposition. A nomination of Mr. Stephens by acclamation will be objected to by certain of the delegates and a call of the counties will be forced.

Mr. Stephens's Movements.

Yesterday morning Mr. Stephens remained in his room and received quite a number of callers. In the afternoon he took a ride about the city, visiting among other places, the residence of Mr, W. B.

Lowe. Returning to the Kimball he kept his room and retired early in the evening, so as to be fresh for his trip back to Washington to day. He will leave the city by the Air-Line, this afternoon, in company with Governor Brown. They will travel

In our note of this race on yesterday we omitted the name of Mr. W. C. Glenn, of Whitfield, who has a small but devoted following. Mr. Glenn is

The general impression last night was that the race would not last over three ballots, and that no "dark horse" would be needed or suggested.

has a small but devoted following. Mr. Glenn is one of the very brightest young democrats in the state, and is a rising man. He deserves well of Georgia and of the democratic party.

A movement was started to nominate Hon, A. O. Bacon for congressman at large to-day, but it is understood that he has declined to allow the use of his name for that position, and many delegates declare that they will put up the Hon. Pope Barrow for that place. It is said that he also declines to allow the use of his name, though we have not perfect authority for saying this.

It is said that the Chatham delegation will probably present the name of the Hon. A. R. Lawton if there is a stubborn struggle for congressmanat large. EMMEL-The friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Emmel are respectfully invited to attend the funeral of the latter at 3 o'clock this af ernon from residence 144 Alexander street.

seas. We are opposed to any discrimination in favor of one place over another by transportation lines. A resolution was adopted that the democracy of Texas demanded from the general government ample recognition and protection for her citizens at home and abroad.

A resolution indorsing the administration of Governor Roberts was carried. The convention then took a recess. Upon reassembling at 3:15 p. m., a telegram was received from Governor Roberts protesting against the use of his name as a candidate for governor.

John Ireland was then nominated by acclamation.

Wheat—thicago—There was some reaction in the market in the early part of the day which caused a temporary u ward movement of quotations. Afterwards the strength yielded to the prissure and again the months were borne downward at a rapid rate, and which, by the close, resulted in placing August and Soptember near yesterday's closing figures. July, however, was subject to a more signal decline and closed at $1.03%, against $1.0%; at yesterday's close. At the close the market had revived to some extent. ## Burglarizing a Store.

Some time during Tuesday night, a burglar, by prizing open a rear window, gained an entrance to Milton Harris's store in Mechanicsville, and without being detected, carried away nearly two hundred pounds of flour, six pieces of meat, quite a quantity of sugar, some tobacco, and a box of cigars.

A Broken Leg.

Early yesterday morning little Eddie Mas-ters, a six year old son of Mrs. Masters, who resides on Church street, fell from the front resides on Church street, fell from the front porch of his residence and broke his left arm near the elbow. The fall was nearly twenty feet, and the child's escape from instant death is a wonder. Dr. Dyer rendered the necessary surgical attention, and the little sufferer at last accounts was doing very well.

Pine street. There was present a large party of negroes, all of whom were anxious to become purchasers. In their great desire to outbid each other a devision arose, and at one time a general row was promised. So great was the disagreement that the sale was pro-longed until long after dark.

Misses Sixty-Seven Dollars.

When Mr. M. Buice, who resides at 59 Peters street, arose yesterday morning and began donning his attire he became satisfied that his pants were much lighter than they usually were. This fact caused him to thrust his heads into his predeter when he had his hands into his pockets, whereby he ascertained that his pocket book containing sixty-seven dollars was missing. An open door in the rear of his residence induced Mr. Buice to believe that a burglar had entered during the night and robbed him.

Almost a Bad Fire.

About half-past five o'clock yesterday morning, the alarm of fire was sounded from engine house No. 1, and was occasioned by the burning of Mr. Krouse's resideuce on Wheat street, near Pryor. At the time the fire was discovered the family was asleep, and its cause is not known. When the fire department reached the scene of the burning the entire roof was one sheet of fire, but by hard work the building was saved. There was an insurance of $1.500 and $800 upon the furniture, but the total loss will not exceed

Drops His Bundle.

Yesterday afternoon a white man, who gave his name as Charles P. Monroe, repaired to police headquarters and stated that he had been robbed of seventy-two dollars. Mr. Monroe, who hails from up the Air-Line road, came to Atlanta yesterday morning, so he says, for the purpose of purchasing some goods. When he left the depot he had the seventy-two dollars in his pants pocket, but when he desired to pay for some purchases made at Ryan's, on Whitehall street, the money wasgone. He could not tell when or where the robbery occurred, and could not assert that he did not lose his money.

Destruction of a Residence.

Intelligence of the total destruction of the residence of Mr. Samuel H. Miller, whose home is near the Chattahoochee river, night before last, reached the city yesterday afternoon. The building was a six-room, one-story structure and had been built only a few The fire was due to a defective flue in the kitchen and was discovered about much in the kitchen and was discovered about midnight by Mr. Miller's ten-year-old son, who was awakened by the incessal thatking of a watch dog. When the family was aroused nearly the entire roof was a solid sheet of fire, and it was with their lives alone that they escaped. Mr. Miller's household goods were all destroyed, and his total loss is nearly $2.00.

Poisoned Milk.

Soon after dinner yesterday Mrs. J. H.
Sandford, who resides on Tatnall street, sud denly became quite ill and sought her bed.
Shortly afterward her eldest daughter, a young lady of about eighteen years, began complaining in the same manner as her mother had, and was soon forced to seek her bet also. Then in a few minutes a small son was afflicted in the same way, and finally the was afflicted in the same way, and finally the cook, a colored woman, was compelled to lie down. Each one of the afflicted persons complained of the most excruciating pains in their bowels and head, and were constantly trying to vomit, but without success. Knowing of no cause for the sudden and strange illness of the family a physician was hurriedly summoned, and in a few seconds after his arrival he came to the conclusion that the entire family had been poisoned. An examination of the dinner bill of fare showed nothing likely to produce the fare showed nothing likely to produce the terrible pains the sufferers were enduring, except some butter milk of which they had all freely drank. This milk Mrs. Sandford purchased from a country wagon, and as the only member of the family who did not drink of it was not made sick. their illness is attributed to that source. Late yesterday evening they were all about recovered, and with the exception of the young lady, are now able to be up.

Death on the Rail.

Between seven and eight o'clock yesterday morning Timean James, a colored train hand on the Macon and Brunswick road, met with an accident which resulted in his death three hours later. James was working on a gravel train and at the time the accident happened was climbing upon the rear end of the tender which was moving backward, but by some means he slipped and fell. In falling both legs dropped upon a rail and before the engineer realized the darkey's position, the wheels of the tender had crushed both limbs in a hornible manner. The accident occurred near the Day before yesterday Messrs. Frierson & Leak made a public sale of the Monroe property which is located at the eastern end of Pine street. There was present a large party of negroes, all of whom sary, and in a short time the sufferer's pains accidental waking of a young lady who resary, and in a short time the sunerer's pains were lost in ether. The operation was quickly performed, and in a short time James began to revive and show some slight chances for a battle with death, but just before twelve o'clock he began to sink, and as the sun marked the noon hour, he died. In the afternoon Coroner Hilburn held an integer and then the remains were tirred over quest and then the remains were turned over to Undertaker Boaz for burial. But little is known of James. He was a middle aged darkey with a blind eye, and was a good worker. In his pockets at the time of the accident were a pistol, a knife, two dollars and a half, and some tobacco.

CONE TO ALABAMA

An Atlanta Young Ludy Marries and Goes to Alabama to Live. Some weeks ago handsome invitations announced to special friends that Mrs. M. A. Wilson's daughter, Lena, would be married on the 19th to Mr. Charles A. Sheldon, of Alabama, and at one o'clock yesterday the family and a large number of friends gathered at the First Presbyterian church to witness the marriage ceremony. The ceremony was a departure from the usual form, inasmuch as solid sheet of fire, and it was with their lives alone that they escaped. Mr. Miller's household goods were all destroyed, and his total loss is nearly $2,000.

An Ugly Scalp Wound.

Late yesterday afternoon, Miss Mamie Rodgers, of Clarksville, Tenn., who is visiting friends on McDonough street, met with a painful accident. Miss Rodgers was lying in a hammock, which was suspended near the edge of a piazza, about ten feet from the ground, and as the hammock swung out its fastenings gave way, throwing the young lady to the ground. In falling her head struck the corner of the house and a bad scalp wound about three inches long was the result. In addition to the wound the bride and groom faced the audience, the

the Country Last Week.

There were one hundred and twenty-four failures in the United States reported in Bradstreet's during the past week, an increase of twenty-five over the preceding week, and thirty-four more than the corresponding week last year. The failures, too, were of greater importance than for some time past. The decline in oil caused the failure of the Parker Savings bank, at Parker Landing, Pennsylvania, and the Cattaraugus banking company, at Cattaraugus, New York. On the other vania, and the Cattaraugus banking company, at Cattaraugus, New York. On the other hand, the advance in grain caused the suspension of C. H. Albers & Co., and Charles W. Buckley & Co., grain merchants, of St. Louis. Among the other failures of interest were Gould H. Thorp, provisions, and John Derundeon, stoves, New York City; E. Steinfeld, clothing, Rochester, New York Morris R. Stroud & Son, cotton goods, and Andreas Meng, live stock, Philadelphia; the Peckham Iron company, of St. Louis; Samuel W. Schneider, wholesale liquors, Kansas City, and A. C. Fish, carriage manufacturer, Racine, Wis. The middle states had 29, an increase of 8; New England states 25, an increase of 11; southern states 15, a decrease of 2; western states 46, an increase of 12; California and the territories 9, a decrease of 4; Canada 9, an inan increase of 12; California and the territories 9, a decrease of 4; Canada 9, an increase of 2. In the principal trades they were as follows: Grocers 20; manufacturers 12; dry goods 10; liquors 9; general traders 3; clothing 6; millinery 6; shoes 5; hardware 4; jewelry 4; produce and provisions 4; dru s 3; tobaceo and cigars 3; "ancy goods 2; grain 2: lumber 2; banks 2; cotton 2.

Only three failures are recorded in Georgia and Tennessee. They are as follows:

Augusta.—E. D. Smythe & Co., crockery, have assigned. Liabilities about $10,000; nominal assets about the same. Dull trade, and poor collections are ascribed as the causes. Savannah.—James Manning, machinist, has failed and assigned. He values his assets at $8,000.

$8,000. Milan.—Plant & Frenz, general store, have assigned to T. J. Gordon. Mr. Plant, who resided in St. Louis, recently committed suicide there.

NEARLY A FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Young Lady While Asleep Attempts to Walk Ou

That the people of Atlanta are not served with a good sensation to discuss at their breakfast tables this morning is due to the the hour for separation had arrived, however one of the guests of the lady was taken quite ill and was escorted to a bed room where she was disrobed and made to feel as easy as ever possible kindness could offer. About 12 o'clock she fell into a quiet sleep and the young lady who was watching by ker side, thinking that her guest had forgotten her ills in sweet slumber, laid down upon a sofa, beside a window in the room, and was soon lost to the cares of this world. How long she slept she does not know, but whilst in the midst of a pleasant dream, she felt something brush across her face and, with a start, awoke. Her awaking saved the life of her friend, but came near be ing her own death. The something which brushed across her face and awoke her was the night-dress of that friend, who had, in a sounambulistic fit arose from her bed and walked across the room to the window, beside which the lady was sleeping. To get to the window she crawled over the sleeping form of her host and then began an exit, which must have re sulted in death but for the work of her gown sulted in death but for the work of her gown. Hardly realizing what she was doing, the lady grabbed the white fabric which had aroused her with both hands, and as she did so her ears were greeted with screams just outside the window. In an instant she, realized that screams just outside the window. In an instant she, realized that she was holding her friend in mid-air, and that to loosen her grasp on the cloth was to insure her dath. She was not physically strong, but with a nerve rarely equalled, she tightened her hold, and then joined in with her friend's call for aid. Soon their combined screams awoke the inmates of the house who heatened to the room and recombined.

In response to a joint invitation from the Y. M. C. A., and the W. C. T. U., Mr. N. F. Thompson, formerly of Kentucky, but now of Savannah, will deliver one of his eloquent lectures on the temperance issues of the day at the Y. M. C. A. hall tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

We clip the following extracts from a long article in the Savannah Morning News relative to Mr. Thompson's recent lecture in that city: "The spacious hall was well filled. "Mr. Thompson is well known in our business circles, and has the reputation of being an carnest, eloquent and successful advocate of the great cause of temperance." The speech altogether was an eloquent presentation of the subject, delivered in an easy, graceful style, and was frequently interrupted by the applause of the audience."

The public generally, and all the temperance organizations of the city, are cordially invited to hear this soble philanthropist. No admission fee, no collections.

A Wise Word From Addison.

Says Addison: "Health and cheerfulness mutually beget each other." There are valumes of truth in this. It is difficult to look at the world through cheery glasses, when disease has set in upon the lous and back, and when the liver and kidneys are out of order. But cheerfulness returns with Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine because it brings health to the afflicted. The aching back, the sallow skin, the hollow eye, the distressed feeling, the bent body, the despondent mind, give way before Hunt's Remedy to the bloom of health, the bounding step, the cheerful spirit, the remeds strength, and to a prolonged lease of vigorous life july16—dlw tues thur sat &wiw

*Saline Aperient, one or two doses will 'put a head on you, 'that your friends would recognize."

*Big Flend—" I'll do any thing to get rid of all this pain and suffering."

This marvelous remed cures those terrible head aches, cleaness the mach, unloads the bowels,
aches, cleaness the mach, unloads the bowels, aches, cleaness the cleares constigation at once, and agives the bile a chance to go. It has become the popular and standard remedy for constigation, bilfloueness, sick headache, hearthurn, and stomach, and all diseases requiring a real nice and pleasans purgative or physic.

It never nauseates nor gripes, acts in one or two hours, and is just so delightful and refreshing a drink, that everybody likes it.

It unclouds and cools the brain, quiets the nerves, and is a sine qua son for the headache of ladies.

It mitigates the pangs of rheumatism and good, relieves kidney and urinary troubles, and pain the hack. For dyspeptics it acts like a charja, and highly recommended for persons who lead a closely confined life and are subject to headache, diagness and torpid bowels. If you are troubled with a coasted tongue, foul breath, loss of appetite or general sluggishness, Bailey's Saline Aperient will cure you. It performs better work than pills, is more pleasant and palatable, and is much cheaper, in fact it is a regular family medicine chest within itself.

It sparkles and foams just like a glass of soda voter, and is just as pleasant. So cents and sold soery-where.

Chief Connolly yesterday received a telegram from an attorney in San Francisco, asking for Mrs. Camilla Foye, who at one time lived in this city. The attorney says that Mrs. Foye's maiden name was Hill and that she came to Atlanta from Boston and while residing here muriced an officer in the United States army. She also has a sister who married a policeman in Atlanta. There is quite a property in San Francisco which belongs to Mrs. Foye, and for this reason the attorney wishes to find her, but she is not in Atlanta.

Penny for Your Thoughts.

The art of thought reading is one of recent dis-covery or invention. Long before it came into existence or was understood, the ancient phrase which heads this article had its origin. The chances now are the sentence will soon become obsolete, and the universal accomplishment of read ing the thoughts of individuals will grow more manifest each day. Experiments in thought read ing are indulged in by almost every one and the earlier opinion entertained by most people that it was something on the level with spirit rapping, or some cleverly worked bit of humbug, is rapidly giving place to the belief that thought reading is in reality a seance and an art indeed, a fact which cannot be gainsayed. How thought reading is done is not so generally inderstood as it should be. Perhaps there may be something in the parties who engage in the "scean-ces" which makes them fit subjects, and has more to do with its success than anything else. The idea that the conclusions are arrived at by closely watchng the facial expression or something of that sort was fully exploded to the satisfaction of the writer a few days ago by an occurrence which happened in this city, in which your repor er took an active part, having been invited to attend one of the sceances, or whatever they are called, by a young ady who has extensive reputation for reading the minds and thoughts of her visitors.

When asked to take a hand the reminiscences of my school days, when we used to do a lit le mateur thought-reading in a way that generally asconished the new boy from the country, was forcibly rought to my mind. The formula ran thus: "Think of a number."

Seyen. "Oh you musn't tell me, you know, keep it to ourself, I can read the figures in your mind, Now hink of a number."

"All right." "Double it."

"Add six hundred and twelve to it." "Half it."

"I've done that." "Substract the number you thought of first,"

"It's subtracted." "Well, now look me straight in the eyes and tell me the truth, you have three hundred and six left."

"Gosh, yes. How do you do that?" I thought of all this as the young and beautiful miss said:

"Think of something no matter what or where," as she prepared and bound a handerchief around hereyes and took my hand and placed the back of t against her brow. I concentrated my mind on a handsome silk I had seen in Brotherton's store, on the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets.

Immediately the young lady engaged in a vivid Immediately the young lady engaged in a vivid description of the article in question and in glowing terms related what was passing through my mind in reference to the many beautiful and serviceable articles to be found in the dry goods department of that extensive establishment. And with rapid changes following in quick succession, as my mind would go from one department to another in this emporium, she would tell of the different things, and the rapid terms the world have any the rapid from heavener to the server emporium, she would tell of the underlined and the real bargains to be had from baseine

The young lady's manner was certainly remarka-The young lady's manner was certainly remarkable. I have to admit. I didn't suspect anything at all, but determined to give her another test.

Changing my thoughts from the many articles that are in stock in this mercantile emporium, I placed my mind on the characteristic attention and air dealing which Brotherton's customers received at the hands of his polite and attentive salesmen and salesladies. With quick nerception she followed in the wake of my thoughts, and mentioning the names of many of those who are thus employed, she told of the cordial reception which was extended to all who visit this establishment, by every one who is in any way connected with it. And adding, as a suggestion of her own, that there is no place in the south where better bargains can be had and more polite attention than at Brotherton's, on the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell.
